

TURKISH FORCES ARE COMPLETELY ROUTED

TURKISH ARMY HAS BEEN OUT-GENERATED AND OUTFOUGHT BY COMBINED BALKAN FORCES.

FEAR FOR CHRISTIANS

Foreigners in Constantinople Fear Scattered Army Now Fleeing From Enemy May Turn to Pillage and Massacre.

London, Nov. 1.—The Turkish army on which the fate of the Ottoman empire depended, has been outgeneraled and outfought. It has made what is believed to be the last stand against the victorious Bulgarians and now is falling back in disorder on its final line of defense at the forts of Tchatalja, 25 miles from Constantinople. Grave doubts are expressed in military circles and repeated even in the Turkish capital as to whether the remnants of the immense but disorganized army of the Sultan will make any serious attempt to hold this line.

Foreigners in Constantinople are fearful for the safety of the Christian population of the Turkish towns and the European powers have taken steps in this connection by the dispatch of warships to Saloniki, Constantinople and other Turkish ports for the protection of their nations. This is a most pressing question of the moment. One correspondent in Constantinople voices the fear of Europeans in that city, that the Turkish retreat from Tchatalja might result in massacre and pillage by what is no longer an army, but a mob.

Will Occupy Constantinople. The belief is held by some diplomats here that the Bulgarian army will be impelled to occupy Constantinople by military and other considerations. While the Bulgarians disclaim any ambition to retain Constantinople, they consider that the quickest way to Turkey in its own capacity. The Bulgarian army would also be able at the same time to protect the Christian residents there.

Greeks Take Island. Athens, Greece, Nov. 1.—The Greeks today occupied the Turkish island of Samothrace in the Aegean seas. Its population numbers about 5,000, most of whom are Christians.

Report Confirmed. Constantinople, Nov. 1.—The sinking of the Turkish battleship Feth-i-Bulend, by a Greek torpedo boat in the gulf of Saloniki, is confirmed in a dispatch from Saloniki. The command of the Feth-i-Bulend telegraphs that nearly all of the crew of the warship were saved. He reports that the Greek torpedo boat entered the harbor unexpectedly at midnight and launched two torpedoes at the stern of the Turkish vessel, which began to sink immediately. The commander, three engineers and four blue-jackets were thrown into the water but were rescued by fishing boats. The boilers of the Feth-i-Bulend exploded as she sank.

Levy More Conscripts. Belgrade, Serbia, Nov. 1.—A third levy of conscripts has been ordered by the Serbian war office. The men as soon as they are equipped will be dispatched to the territory occupied by the Serbians in Macedonia where they will act as a reserve. The strength of the Serbian army has astonished the inhabitants of the conquered country.

Arnauts Turn to Serbia. The Musselman Arnauts are now abandoning the Turks and taking the oath of allegiance to King Peter of Serbia.

Balkans Will Dictate. Sofia, Nov. 1.—The official news-

per, the Mir, says today: "If Turkey desires peace she must negotiate directly with the Balkan states and not seek the intervention of the powers." It is reported that a Bulgarian column has captured the Turkish town of Strumitza, 55 miles to the north of Saloniki.

Decide on Terms.

Vienna, Nov. 1.—Negotiations are in progress between representatives of Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece with a view to reaching an agreement in regard to their demands on Turkey at the conclusion of hostilities, according to the Neue Freie Presse. As it is the intention of the four Balkan states to take joint action in this respect the allies would prefer to enter into direct and immediate negotiations with Turkey, but it is understood the Ottoman government refuses to accept this proposition and in all probability will appeal to the European powers for mediation. It is uncertain, however, whether the Balkan states would tolerate any intervention.

Have Whip Hand.

Sofia, Nov. 1.—The Bulgarian troops today occupied the Turkish town of Demotica, thus completely cutting off the possibility of communication between Adrianople and Constantinople.

On to Constantinople.

Kustendie, Roumania, by wireless from Constantinople, Oct. 31, 11 p. m.—The defeat of the Turkish army under Nazim Pasha, opens the way to Constantinople for the Bulgarian troops. This will, in the opinion of diplomatic circles, lead to a situation which almost inevitably will bring about European complications. The most immediate danger, however, concerns the position of this city itself. Most authorities agree that no real defense can be made along the Tchatalja line supposed to protect the capital.

Not Decided.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—The European governments have not yet agreed whether to intervene in the Balkan war or to offer mediation at the present moment after the expected battle at Tchatalja, twenty-five miles from Constantinople. They have, however, decided not to wait for Turkey to take the initiative in asking for mediation. The meeting of the European ambassadors at Constantinople last evening discussed exclusively the measures to be taken for the prevention of possible massacre. The various schemes for the division of Turkish territory among the Balkan allies which have been published are declared by the German foreign office to be based wholly on guess work as no negotiations on the subject have yet taken place.

To Make Protest.

Sofia, Nov. 7.—The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh discharged nine shells yesterday at the Cape Mine light house between the Bulgarian ports of Burgas and Varna. The light house was damaged. The Bulgarian government intends to protest against the bombardment of a building devoted solely to peaceful services.

Sink Turks' Vessel.

Athens, Nov. 1.—The Turkish battleship Aethi-Bulend was sunk during last night in the gulf of Saloniki by a Greek torpedo boat. The Greek commander's daring enterprise was carried out under the guns of the Turkish forts without being observed and the torpedo boat escaped unscathed.

THREE ARMY BUREAUS ARE MERGED INTO ONE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—In conformity with legislation enacted at the last session of congress, the quartermaster's, subsistence and pay departments of the army were today consolidated into one general supply department. The new department is to be known as "the quartermasters corps." Maj. Gen. James B. Aleshiro, quartermaster-general, has been placed in charge, with Brig. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, former commissary general, and Brig. Gen. George R. Smith, former paymaster-general, as his chief assistants.

FIRST PICTURES OF GREEKS IN BATTLE AND OF DESTRUCTION WROUGHT BY THEM TO TURK FORTIFICATIONS REACH AMERICA

At the top, Greek Infantry in action at Ellassona, on the Greco-Turkish frontier; at the bottom, Turkish frontier station after being demolished by Greeks.

The first pictures of the Greek soldiers on the firing line have reached America. They were taken on the Grasso-Turkish frontier, where there have been numerous bloody engagements. In these fights the Greeks have shown remarkable valor and have been uniformly successful. The entire Greek army is massing on the frontier, while but a small portion of the Turkish forces can be spared to ward off their advance. In one of the accompanying pictures Greek Infantry is seen in action at Ellassona; in the other is shown a Turkish frontier station which was demolished.

A few years ago Greece suffered humiliating defeat at the hands of Turkey. Now, apparently, the tables are to be turned. The Greeks are spurred on by a spirit of mingled patriotism and revenge and show no quarter to their Turkish foes.

Girl Accused of Murdering Her Sister and Found Insane Freed After Two Years' Imprisonment.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Massillon, O., Nov. 1.—The release from the State insane asylum here of Katie Manz has caused much comment among those who remember the sensational circumstances attending the arrest and trial of the pretty 16-year-old girl two years ago for the alleged murder of her sister. The girl was accused of having given poisoned coffee to her sister with fatal results. The alleged motive of the crime was the girl's envy of the fine clothes worn by her sister. Katie was indicted for first degree murder. The jury found her insane and she was committed to the asylum. While she was in jail awaiting trial many stories were current concerning the fascination she is alleged to have exercised over her boopers, and a public investigation was ordered to inquire into the unusual favors she was said to receive from the authorities having her in charge. After spending less than two years in the asylum the girl has now been released on probation, and is said to be studying in a hospital to become a trained nurse.

IMPPLICATES SPOUSE IN CONFESSION AS TO SINGER MURDER

Wife of Circus Actor Arrested For the Death of Elopings Heiress in Chicago Said to Have Given Detailed Statement to The Police.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Confession of the murder of Miss Sophia G. Singer, the Baltimore heiress who eloped to Chicago with William Worthen and was killed on the day before she was to have been married, was reported by police to have been obtained today from Mrs. Lillian Patricia Conway, who with Charles N. Conway the circus clown and high diver, was brought here from Lima, Ohio earlier in the day.

Husband Did It.

"She has owned up to the murder," said the police official who announced the confession, "but says she had little to do with it." She said that Conway knocked the Singer girl down with an improvised billy made of a door knob in a handkerchief and with a shoe lace as a handle with the intention of robbing the heiress.

"We thought she had more money than she did," continued the official on account of the woman's story, "Charlie did it. And it was to throw the blame over her when we left. I didn't think she was dead." Then she told the officials they announced that she would tell the whole story and they sent for a stenographer. William R. Worthen, fiancé of the girl became hysterical with joy when the news was taken to him.

Conway, the woman's husband paced back and forth without knowledge of the accusation, being made against him. A door opened and he could hear the screams of his wife after having made her confession. Mrs. Conway said the police admitted that she had quarreled with Miss Singer about going away; some entertainment and said Conway took up the quarrel.

Woman Hysterical.

While Mrs. Conway was being questioned by the police, William R. Worthen broke out in bitter denunciation of the Conway woman and his voice could be heard throughout the police station as he shouted, "You know you did it. You both did it. You know you killed my Sophia." The woman cried aloud and became hysterical shouting wildly, "It's not so. It's not so. You know you killed her yourself."

Charles N. Conway and his wife vaudeville performers, who were arrested at Lima, Ohio, in connection with the murder of Miss Sophia G. Singer of Baltimore, Md., an heiress slain in a rooming house here, arrived here today.

The prisoners were taken at once to the office of Capt. John J. Halpin. Separate cabs had been provided to convey Conway and his wife to police headquarters.

The husband handcuffed was first taken from the train. Several minutes were allowed to elapse before Mrs. Conway was brought out, the purpose being to prevent her communicating with Conway.

Half an hour after reaching Captain Halpin's office the Conways were taken seven miles distant to the St. Ann Avenue police station. The latter place is not far from the rooming house in which the murder was committed.

Industrial Subjects for both boys and girls, classes from 7-10 a. m. in High School.

Subjects required by law 10-12 a. m.

Pupils may go to the two hours work on Friday and three hours industrial work on Saturday, or to the three hours industrial work on Friday and the two hours academic work on Saturday, or the five hours the same day according to convenience of their employers.

The manufacturers are showing every courtesy to the local Industrial Board in arranging for the five hours per week for the children having permits who are obliged to attend the Industrial Day School. The parents of the children are co-operating most heartily with the Industrial Board and the children themselves are showing commendable spirit in wishing to improve their knowledge of the various trades so as to make themselves more useful to their employers.

Night School This Month.

The night school will probably begin in November. The outlook for a large class of clerks, who will study the problems of salesmanship under expert direction, is most promising.

Commercial Work:

1. Penmanship.
2. Bookkeeping.
3. Typewriting.
4. Shorthand.
5. Salesmanship.

Industrial Work:

1. Mechanical Drawing.
2. Joinery and Cabinet Making.

Domestic Science Work:

1. Plain sewing and needle work.
2. Cooking and household sanitation.
3. Millinery.
4. Household arts, decoration and design.
5. Dressmaking.

Department of Practical Science:

1. Study of electrical appliances.
2. Study of gasoline engines.

Academic Department:

1. Business arithmetic.
2. Reading for foreigners.
3. Citizenship.

The High School building will be used for the evening school work and for most of the day school work. Everything promises a most successful year for the new Industrial School.

Very truly yours,
H. C. Buell, Supt.

YIELD TO COUNTY FROM INCOME TAX

State Tax Commission Makes Public the Totals—Estimate Return After Offset is Deducted, $51,000.

The state tax commission made public today the totals shown by the income tax returns of Rock county. The results indicate that the cities furnish most of the moneys and credits.

In Beloit the per capita tax on moneys and credits under the 1911 assessment was but $2.35. In Janesville it was $9.73. On the other hand, the per capita tax on moneys and credits in the rural town of Johnston was $19.07; of La Prairie, $16.21; of Milton, $15.75; of Union, $14.47; and in the villages as follows: Clinton, $14.75; Milton, $15.25; Orfordville, $31.73.

As evidence of further inequality of assessment of moneys and credits, the tax commission points to the fact shown by the returns that there was no money nor credits whatever in the towns of Fulton, Rock or Spring Valley.

The total income tax to be collected in Rock county amounts to $88,106.08. The yield of the individual income tax after the offset is deducted is estimated at $21,074, and that of the corporation tax after the offset at $30,589. The total yield after the offset is estimated at $51,663.

FRIDAY

BY C. A. VOIGHT

Yale has the only football team of consequence in the east whose goal line has not been crossed this year, the only scoring against the blue being two field goals. The Yale defense has been retributed, but the defense has been generally regarded as disappointing.

Princeton, on the other hand, has a strong offense but a weak defense. The Tigers' coaches have been hammering steadily from the start at positive offensive tactics.

Harvard's stock is soaring. If the experts are correct in their prophecies that the brunt of the work of the big games will fall on the backfield, Harvard should stand very high, for it has an unparalleled trio in Brickley, Wendell and Hardwick.

In the Western conference Wisconsin apparently has the edge on all of its opponents. Coach Bill Juneau's team has beaten everything in sight thus far and if it can whip Chicago Saturday it will have the western championship clinched. Although the Maroons have beaten Iowa, Indiana and Purdue, they have not done so by decisive scores, and will have to show better form Saturday or bow to the Badgers.

A new white hope in the shape of a policeman named Angus W. McEachern has come to the front in Boston. He weighs 192 pounds and is six feet tall. He is a master of wrestling and jitsu and boxes cleverly. McEachern is to become a professional and has eyes on the championship.

It is understood that $8,000 will be the salary limit in the American association in 1913. The A. A. officials met in Chicago lately and reached an agreement after a five-hour session.

WISCONSIN TEAM IS READY FOR STRUGGLE

Badgers Given Last Heavy Work-Out Last Night—Van Riper Out of Game.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—The Badgers held their last heavy work-out before the Chicago game yesterday afternoon. Van Riper was on the field but was not allowed to mix in the practice, and he will not be played tomorrow. On account of his injury, it is planned to hold him out to be ready to enter the Gopher game later. Keeler, victim of a bad shoulder, has good chances of playing tomorrow. Powell, the big center, is developing into all-western material. Much is expected of him in the remaining big games.

The Chicago team is due to arrive at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The first contingents of hundreds of Wisconsin alumni arrived today for the varsity homecoming arranged as an added feature of the football week-end.

Arrangements to seat 13,500 persons have been made at Camp Randall. Nearly 11,000 of the seats had been sold up to last night. Over 3,000 student tickets have been disposed of. The lowest price for seats for others than students is $2. Other seats are $2.50 and $3. Students pay 50 cents. Receipts for the Chicago game are expected to reach $15,000. The demand for seats is enormous and four men have been at work for ten days caring for the mail orders. The sale is the greatest for many years.

Snow, which had been predicted today, probably will not affect the game much. The field was covered with hay last night and it will not be removed until Saturday morning.

PRINCIPAL FOOTBALL GAMES TOMORROW.

Wisconsin vs. Chicago at Madison.
Purdue vs. Northwestern, at Evans-ton.
Minnesota vs. Illinois, at Minnea-polis.
Nebraska vs. Missouri, at Columbia.
Lake Forest vs. Beloit, at Beloit.
Marquette University vs. Loyola, at Chicago.
Pennsylvania vs. Penn State, at Philadelphia.
Princeton vs. Harvard, at Cam-bridge.
Yale vs. Colgate, at New Haven.
Cornell vs. Williams, at Ithaca.
Brown vs. Vermont, at Providence.
Carlisle vs. Lehigh, at Bethlehem.
Annapolis vs. Western Reserve, at Annapolis.
Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh, at Pitts-burgh.

The Philadelphia Athletics, headed by John Shibe and Capt. Danny Murphy, have just reached Cuba. They will play on alternate days in November before Havana crowds. Those in the party are Bender, Lapp, Coombs, Collins, Barry, Thomas, Plank, McInnis, Staunk and Orling.

Managers "Muggsy" McGraw and Hughie Jennings, of the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers respectively, will earn a few honest pennies this winter on the vaudeville stage. McGraw will play the role of a black face comedian. McGraw will draw the modest salary of $1,500 per week for fifteen weeks while Jennings will pull down a mere bagatelle of $8,000 during the ten weeks that he will devote to the footlights.

Now comes the disconcerting news from Detroit that Ty Cobb may quit baseball. He wants a salary of $15,000 per year, and a three-year contract. If he is refused this, it is declared on the best authorities he will become a member of one of the largest banking and brokerage firms on Wall street, New York. Cobb's salary as Detroit Tiger for three years past has been $9,000 per year.

Now that Jack Johnson has been eliminated by all the boxing clubs of the country, the question is being everywhere discussed: "Who will succeed him?" Al-Falzer, Luther McCarty, Bombardier Wells, and Jim Flynn are the likeliest candidates if the colored boys are to be left out. But can they be, fairly. Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette have always behaved well, and many believe that they should not be completely barred because of Jack Johnson's shortcomings. Langford and Jeannette are as formidable as any of the white hopes.

West Point vs. Holy Cross, at West Point.

WILL MEET BELLOIT TOMORROW AT TEN

Old Rivals on Gridiron Will Contend For Honors in Bitter Contest.

Janesville's bitterest rivals oppose them tomorrow morning when Beloit, sends her strong high school football team to this city to meet in a bitter contest. The locals are expecting Beloit to spring a surprise, and are ready to oppose anything which their opponents may bring up. A large score is not predicted, and a victory for Janesville is all that can be expected, even if it be by a large score. Janesville will have the same lineup which she used in defeating White-water last Saturday.

This is a powerful machine, and with this weeks practice, makes the locals above par for the coming game with their bitter rivals. A fast game is expected, and the locals are in for good clean victory, and nothing else will satisfy them. If they win by a fluke a disappointment will prevail for it is a sentiment throughout the school that when Janesville and Beloit meet, in athletics, the locals wish to win in the gameness of the thing, and to avoid criticism.

It is possible a referee from Beloit College will officiate, to hold these enemies from the least possible chance to argue. It is hoped the game will be all through by eleven o'clock, as many members of the team, are anxious to make the quarter to twelve train for Madison where Chicago and Wisconsin are fighting for the Western Championship.

If Janesville defeats Beloit tomorrow by a good score, they will have raised themselves one point in claiming the state title, which a school can only do. A state championship is absurd, and when a school comes out and says it has the title of the state it is only a claim. Janesville is out to claim it, and then if the state athletic authorities pronounce Janesville the winners then it is time to have this title apart from other schools. A large crowd is expected, as there has always been before at the Beloit games.

The game will begin at 10:00 o'clock and an effort will be made to start the game as much before ten as possible. A wide interest is taken in this game, and a Janesville victory is all which can be expected. The lineup for the locals tomorrow will be: J. Kuhlow, lt. Mohr, Jr. Dutton, c. Cannon, rg. L. Stewart, Jr. Cummings, re Connell (Capt.), qb. J. Stewart, lb. Edler, rh. Falter, rh. Ryan.

Janesville substitutes are: O'Connor, Sully and Jones.

MARYLAND JOCKEY CLUB BEGINS FALL RACE MEET

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—The fall meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club began at Pimlico today, with indications pointing to one of the best seasons held at that track in late years. The stables are filled with fast horses that have distinguished themselves on the summer circuits, among them being some of the greatest long-distance thoroughbred racers in the country. The meeting will last ten days, with at least two feature events included in each day's program.

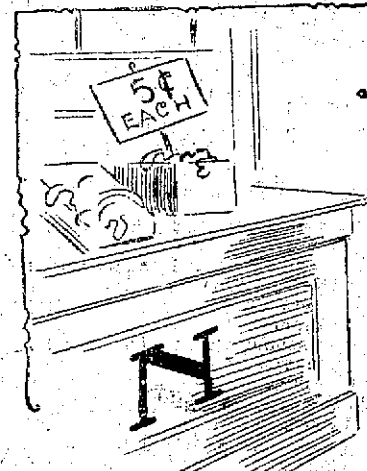

Woman of Narrow Mind.
A woman lacking true culture is said to betray by conversation a mind of narrow compass; bounded on the north by her servants, on the east by her children, on the south by her ailments, and on the west by her clothes. —Burton Kingsland.

Small Chance for Him.
A Brooklyn man's wife has eighteen rocking chairs. There's one man who doesn't dare to sneak into the house late at night.

What kind of a chair?

Possible Explanation.
In a Connecticut hamlet where old-fashioned regulations are in force, the night-watchman has a dog that chases the young children, off the streets at eight o'clock. This must be the dog that put the "cur" in curfew. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A word meaning to combat.

Overconfidence.
"Your opponent says he can win in a walk," said the campaigner. "Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "let us encourage that idea. If we can persuade him to hold himself down to a walk, maybe I can get up a burst of speed that will beat him."

Temporarily Postponed.
"Why, Rastus," said Smithers, "what are you doing here? I thought you were going to be married this morning?" "Why, yass, ah was, Mistuh Smithers," said Rastus, "but dat ceremony am temporarily postponed, sah. De bride, she done run off wiv dat wuthless niggah Thum Jonsing, suh." —Harper's Weekly.

Must Be Warned.
The Prussian building code has just received a rather remarkable amendment. It provides that the huts for the use of laborers connected with building operations must be suitably warmed between November 1 and April 1—when the outside temperature reaches fourteen degrees; that is, eighteen below freezing.

Admiral Hawke's Ambition.
When Admiral Hawke was a boy, about to go to sea for the first time, his father gave him much good advice, ending up with the words, "I hope to live to see you a captain." "A captain!" answered the boy; "if I did not think I should one day be an admiral I would not go to sea at all."

A GOOD MOVE.

The announcement that but forty saloon licenses will be granted next year, is likely to have a wholesome effect on the fraternity, as cheerful observance of law may have much to do with the admission of candidates. The contemplated move is in the right direction. The city as well as the men engaged in the business, would be better off if only one license was granted to 500 people.

This is the basis recommended by the National Brewers' association, and it should be adopted by every city in the state. It means living competition for men engaged in the business, who respect the law—and there are many of this class—and it also means dispensing with the low groggeries which are a menace to the city.

It will require moral courage and backbone, on the part of the commission, to reduce the number to forty, as the men put out of business will naturally find that they have a grievance, while the landlords who own the buildings will bitterly complain.

This latter class is the great stumbling block which the preacher finds in his way when he attempts to discuss moral reforms, for some of these men are his best financial supporters, and the bread and butter question is an ever present problem.

This suggestion is not offered in a spirit of criticism. It is simply a plain statement of conditions for which public sentiment is responsible. The city wants the saloon because the theory prevails that the business is necessary to general prosperity. The "dry town" is considered a dead town, and this false notion is so prevalent that it represents the balance of power, whenever the question of license or no license is submitted.

The saloon frequently occupies property that could not be rented for any other kind of business, and the price paid for any location is always liberal. The landlord argues that the city wants the business, and the money consideration is always tempting.

These conditions will continue until public sentiment is converted to a higher standard. Just how to bring this about is the unsolved problem.

BROOM CORN.

That the state of Texas contributes freely to the broom market is evidenced by the following news paragraph:

"Down in the Panhandle district of Texas it is broom cutting time. A single grower there has 2,200 acres this year, and it takes a little army of people to pull the brush fully a month, beginning with September 1. This year the scarcity of labor was relieved by going to Mexico and bringing across the border a goodly number of Mexicans who had survived their activities in the revolutionary cause. This is the Panhandle's contribution to the promotion of peace. But the broom corn industry on a large scale has helped to put the prices of land from $30 up to $100 or more, now that the crop has demonstrated its adaptability to the soil conditions of this territory. The big farm of 3,000 acres at Wildorado was broken up by gang plows, pulled by traction engines, just as the new grain fields in Montana were opened for the first time this season."

Attorneys who are defending the convicted saloon men are of course expected to exhaust every effort in the interests of their clients, but the fact should not be overlooked that public sentiment is thoroughly aroused in demands for law enforcement, and the crusade against vice has but just commenced. If Janesville is "just as good as any other city," it is a sad comment on city life generally. What the town needs is moral reformation. Existing conditions which have long prevailed. The "good enough city" may be made a good deal better, and it is up to the citizens to see that this is done.

The city of Monmouth, Ill., is a dry town, as the result of the state county option law. Monmouth is a college town and its student population has increased from 2,000 to 6,000 during the past two years. Parents consider it a safe place today to educate their children. The merchants claim that the only effect on business is that they have no more bad debts, and that the money formerly spent for rum, now goes for bread. The city of Rockford, nearer home, is also dry and likely to be for years to come. Janesville is across the line in a state whose principal industry is beer. Perhaps the best that can be hoped is stringent laws and strict regulation. This the people have a right to demand.

One of the welcome surprises is contained in the announcement that the new industrial school will be installed at once, with a good sized class in attendance. This is practical, not only from the educational standpoint, but from the child welfare side of the question as well. The Green Bay reformatory is over-run with boys between the ages of 14 and 16, who have graduated from the street because our fool laws don't permit them to work, and the schools fail to interest them. The industrial school will help to tide this class of boys over, as well as to interest them in practical work, which will tend to develop good citizens. The school should be liberally supported.

Some of the Wisconsin republican candidates for congress are having a busy time attempting to ride two horses at the same time. They are not saying much about their equestrian experiences, and all efforts to smoke them out have thus far failed. Congressional speakers in Wisconsin have been a minus quantity. If some of them are defeated they will know where to lay the blame. "The Lord hates a coward" and the people haven't much use for disloyalty.

Governor McGovern would have it appear that the income tax is a blessing in disguise, and in the next breath claims that he is not responsible for it, but the fact remains that his administration has been the most reckless, in the history of the state, and the million dollars a month that it costs to support it, is a financial liability that only the cold cash will satisfy. The governor is on the defensive, handicapped by the tar barrel episode, which will cling to him long after he has been retired to the ranks.

It is gratifying to know that the streets are being cleared of loafers and that the officers have been inspired with courage to perform their duty. The average boy is more thoughtless than vicious, and a word from an officer to "move on" is all that is necessary to correct a habit that has become a nuisance.

Statistics compiled by the department of commerce and labor, show that this country harvested 6,839,000 bales of cotton this year, up to the 18th of October. Of this amount, the state of Texas contributed more than three million bales. The world's consumption of cotton for the year, was over 20 million bales.

Every brotherhood in the city has endorsed the movement now being made for the enforcement of law. The committee of fifteen, representing the citizens who met at the city hall, not long ago, may be assured that moral support is not lacking.

The fact was brought out by Secretary Wilson yesterday that the government has an agent in each of 800 counties in the south to aid in developing the soil. This is intelligent work and it should be extended to all parts of the country.

The Ottoman empire seems to be on the verge of collapse, and the world will not greatly mourn if the wreck is completed. Turkey has been slow to adopt the profits of civilization, and while war is always to be dreaded, it has long been recognized as the great civilizer.

Bulgaria, with a population of only four million, equipped an army of 250,000 in two weeks, and sent the men to the front. There was no age limit, and boys and old men marched side by side.

KILL THIS AMENDMENT.

The one pernicious amendment which should be buried beyond resurrection this year will be known as Joint Resolution No. 48.

To amend Article XI of the Constitution by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 3a, relating to the acquisition of lands by the state or any of its cities for certain public purposes.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1909, an amendment to the Constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the two Houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That Article XI of the Constitution be amended by adding a new section thereto, to be known as Section 3a to read:

"Section 3a. The state or any of its cities may acquire by gift, purchase or condemnation lands for establishing, laying out, widening, enlarging, extending and maintaining memorial grounds, streets, squares, parkways, boulevards, parks, playgrounds, sites for public buildings, and reservations in and about and along and leading to any or all of the same; and after the establishment, layout, and completion of such improvements, may convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for such improvements, with reservations concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate, so as to protect such public works and improvements, and their environs, and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air and usefulness of such public works"; now therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this Legislature.

ON A PUR OF THE MOMENT

Old Friend Mary. Mary had a little skirt, And it was built so tight About her person that she had To peel it right off at night.

The Pessimist's Idea. A yard or two of stuff that's called a skirt, A waist that's made of some expensive lace, A pair of shoes that are so tight they hurt, Some padding put in just the proper place, A hat that costs nine times what it is worth, A neck or two of someone else's hair, A complexion bought most anywhere on earth, A corset that is too tight everywhere, A bundle of artistic temperament, A flow of conversation that is light, A passing whiff of some delicious scent, A show of vanity from morn till night— And that's a woman.

A bag of wind inflated without cause, A blow, hard as an ardent egotist Who knows more than the ones who made the laws, A set of teeth, a mustache and a fist, Some shoulders that are padded out of shape, A small of burned tobacco that is stale, A blossom on the nose from festive grape, Some stories that make modest folk turn pale, A punk cigar that sizzles all day long, A thing who's chiefest aim is just to eat, A party who is right, all others wrong, Who's always ninety-nine percent conceited— And that's a man.

His System.

A gentleman, who was a stranger to the usual throng, stepped up to the mahogany, ordered a New Orleans fizz and, reaching in his pocket, pulled forth a live load and placed it on the bar.

"For the love of Mike," yelled the man next to him, "Why the load?" "That load plays a star part in a system that I have used for many years with great success," replied the gentleman.

"Spring it," shouted the mob. "Well, you see, I take my little friend toad and place him on the mahogany in front of men and order my drink. I take my drink and then I order another and sometimes another and perhaps then another. I look at my toad and if there is only one toad there I stay and enjoy a few more rounds. As soon as there are two toads there instead of one I go home. I have never yet stayed until there was three. That's my system. Well, I don't mind if I do. A little more of the same, please."

Mother, Come Home.

Mother, dear mother, come home with me now, The clock in the steeple strikes six, Forget your woes for women the rest of the day.

For pa's in the deuce of a fix, He's been taking care of the seven young kids, 'Tis more of a job than you think, He wants to get supper but all of the pots And dishes are piled in the sink.

Cho: "Come home, come home" etc.

He's been darning stockings until he is lame, His fingers are weary and sore, He's mopped and he's scrubbed and although he is game, He says he can't do any more, The furnace fire's out and the cat's in

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

A pure, healthful, Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

When buying an article of food you are entitled to know exactly what you are buying—its quality and ingredients.

If this information is refused don't buy it. Some of the low grade baking powders are advertised, but the ingredients of the powders are scrupulously concealed.

A housekeeper would not use a baking powder containing alum if she knew it.

It is well when buying to examine the label on the can. Unless it shows the ingredient cream of tartar, don't buy it. Dr. Price's baking powder is absolutely free from alum.

African Ants.

These insects sometimes set forward in such multitudes that the whole earth seems to be in motion. A corps of them once was seen to attack and cover an elephant quietly feeding in a pasture. In eight hours nothing was to be seen but the skeleton of that enormous animal completely picked. The business was done, and the enemy marched on after fresh prey. Such power have the smallest creatures acting in concert.

Who never to himself bath said. Tonight at eight I go to bed? Lives there a man who does that same? When crones call him up to frame A little old draw poker game?

Woman and Suffrage.

If a woman demands votes, officer and political equality with men, as among the Shakers an elder and elderess are of equal power—and among the Quakers—it must not be refused. It is very cheap wit that finds it a droll that woman should vote.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The innate difference between real life and the stage is well illustrated by the fact that on the stage the people who sing "Auld Lang Syne," in a New Year's eve scene, do not forget the words.

In a Few Days.

MURDER TRIAL MAY BE THE FIRST CASE

Ed. Meyer and Harry Berger Will Probably Face Jury in Circuit Court on November 18.

It is probable that the Bergsman murder case will be the first trial for the jury calendar which is called for November 18. Returns have been made to the court and are on file in the clerk's office. It is understood that the defendants are ready to stand trial at once and the case will consequently be disposed of at this term of court. There is little doubt in the mind of District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie and Attorney Thomas S. Nolan, for the defendants, Ed. Meyer and Harry Berger, that Judge Grimm will take up the case at once.

WEEKLY FORECAST
OF THE WEATHER

Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Oct. 30 to Nov. 3, and Nov. 4 to 8; warm waves Oct. 29 to Nov. 2 and Nov. 3 to 7; cool waves Oct. 31 to Nov. 5, and Nov. 6 to 10. These disturbances will cover some of the warmest days in November and will wind up with a great fall in temperature, a cold wave and snows north, a cool wave with cold rains south. The storms will not be unusually severe and the precipitation will be less than usual north and about normal south.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Nov. 9, cross Pacific slope by close of 10, great central valleys 11 to 13, eastern sections 14. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 9, great central valleys 11, eastern sections 13. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 12, great central valleys 14, eastern sections 16.

Temperatures of the week covered by this disturbance will average lower than usual and the cool wave will be a cold wave reaching far southward. The week centering on that cold wave will be the coldest part of November. We are not expecting much precipitation on this continent during the fall and winter. Indications are that falling moisture will gradually decrease, as the winter months come in, both in Canada and in the states and that the humidity which furnishes the material for rain and snow will as gradually change from the North Atlantic—principally east of the line between Canada and the states, where it was located during the past crop season—and go to the South Atlantic, off the coast of Brazil.

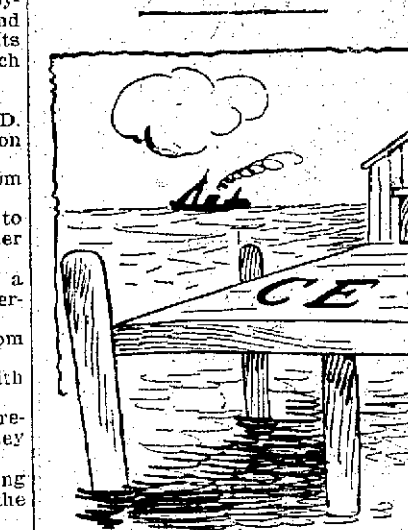

For above reasons the humidity or moisture in the atmosphere is expected to be less than usual on this continent during the coming winter months and therefore we may expect less than the usual amount of snow and rain, particularly in our northern sections. Probabilities are that greater precipitation will occur in our southern states than in more northern sections during the coming winter months.

Prof. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution has returned from South America where, through the aid of a congressional appropriation, he has been trying to determine whether the sun's heat force varies in periods of from five to ten days as they found was the case in the northern hemisphere. That variation has been used in our weather work for twenty years. But it is the moon and not the sun that causes the variation. We are of the opinion that Prof. Abbott is looking too far away for the cause of that variation and that he will find the period of the variations to be longer in December and June than in March and September.

If the variation is in the sun it can never be of any practical benefit, but if it is the moon that causes the cycle it can be made immensely useful in forecasting the weather.

INFORMATION AS TO THE PARCELS POST

Postmaster Valentine Instructed as to Service Through Postoffice Department's Bulletin.

That the parcels post will be established at the local postoffice and other postoffices throughout the country, is the information conveyed to Postmaster C. L. Valentine through the daily bulletin sent out by the postoffice department at Washington. A code of regulations for the establishment of the service according to the terms of the recent bill passed by Congress is contained in the bulletin. Among the more important rules are that the distinctive parcels post stamps must be used in sending parcels, and the use of ordinary stamps for the parcels post will not be permitted. All packages marked for parcels post bearing ordinary stamps will be treated as "held for postage." Parcels will be mailable only at post-offices, branch postoffices, or such numbered stations as may be designated by the postmaster, and all parcels must bear the name of the sender, or they will not be accepted. Parcels post maps will be furnished postmasters showing the unit area in which the office is located, and the eight zones indicating the distance on which the parcels post rates of postage will be based. Each postmaster will also be furnished with a parcels post guide showing the unit area in which every post office is located and other information approved of by the postmaster general for the conduct of the service.

CITY MAY PURCHASE TWO OILING OUTFITS

Provision for City Undertaking Street Oiling Was Made in Budget Recently Adopted.

Two outfits for oiling the macadam streets will probably be purchased by the city of Janesville according to Mayor James A. Fath's Provision for the purchase of such apparatus and oil was made in the general fund of the new budget, and although it will be several months yet before any of the money appropriated will be utilized the City Council is already outlining the methods by which the oiling of streets will be done. It is planned to purchase the oil by advertising for bids, standards for the oil having been determined upon by the Board of Public Works. The oil will be received in car-load lots and heated by steam in the tank cars before being tapped into the machines, which apply it to the streets. Much more satisfactory results are obtained with heated than with cold oil. It dries more rapidly and has better penetration and adhesion. The first thought of the council was to purchase machines with heaters attached but it has since been learned that they are not giving the best of satisfaction.

The cost of oiling is not expected to exceed five cents per front foot, and in case it should, the excess would probably be paid out of the general fund. Property owners will be given the opportunity to pay for the expense of oiling within thirty days after it is done, otherwise it will be made a tax lien against the property. The city intends to go ahead with the oiling without waiting for petitions and apply a carload of oil at a time so as to make high demurrage charges or storage unnecessary.

STEEL LAYING WAS COMMENCED TODAY

Crew of Sixty-Five Italians Brought Here to Lay Rails for New Storage Tracks.

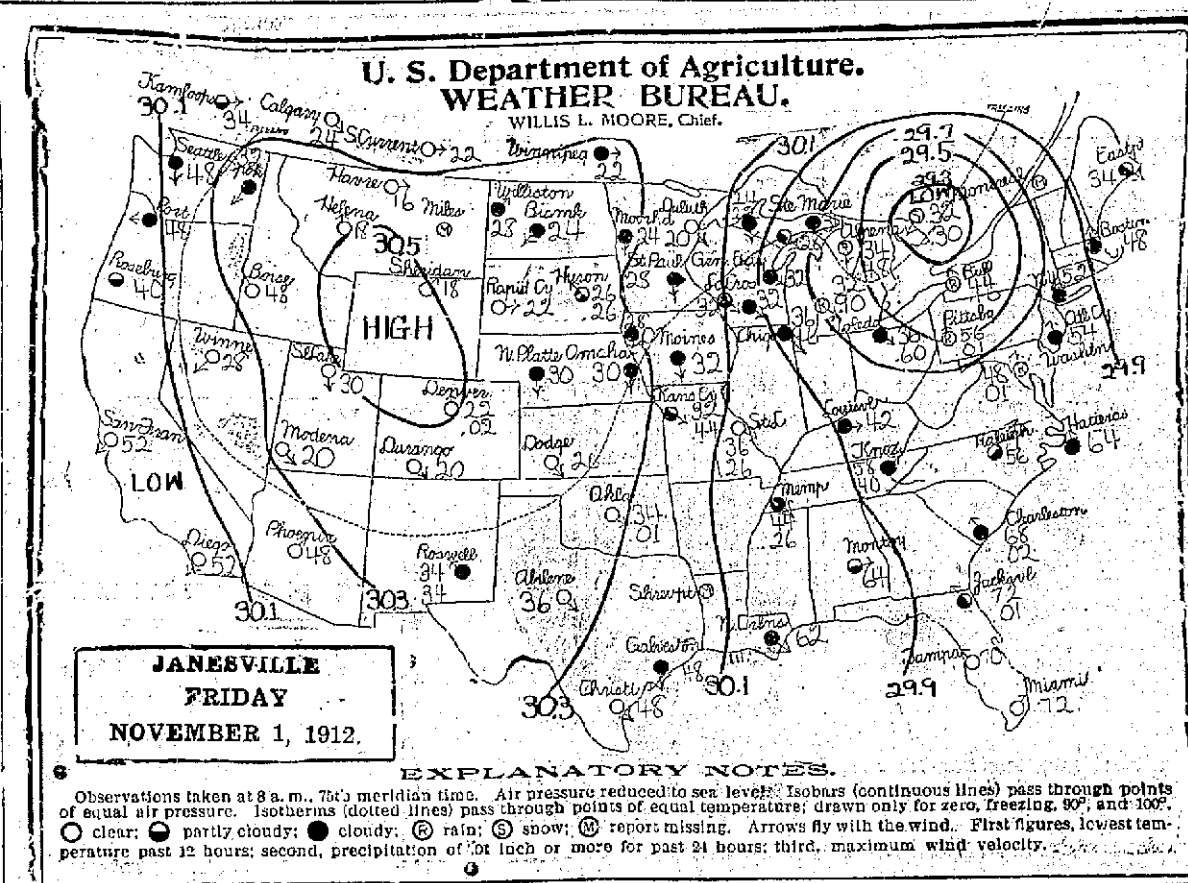

A crew of sixty-five Italian laborers arrived in the city at noon today to commence the work of laying the new storage tracks for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad near the Hanson Furniture company's factory. The grading work has been completed for some time, but owing to the difficulty in securing laborers, the laying of the steel has been delayed. The ties and rails needed for the work have already been unloaded on the grounds, and everything was in readiness for the crew to begin its work today. Nearly a mile and a half of tracks will be laid to be used as storage tracks. The new tracks are being installed by the company to relieve the present congestion in the yards in this city. The company is doing a trucking business, according to all reports, and the present yard facilities are inadequate for their needs. The volume of business handled within the past few months has increased steadily.

These Fish Build Nests.
The Paradise fish, which incidentally is clothed in the prison garment of black and white stripes, and the Indian fighting fish are nest builders. They build nests among the mosses and grasses for their eggs. The male fishes of these species take charge of the babies, and the females have nothing to do with their babies.

Reduced Rates.
"Comin' this way ag'in?" asked the justice of the peace after he had fined Jimpson $50. "I'm afraid I'll have to," said Jimpson, ruefully. "Well," said the justice, stroking his chin whisker reflectively, "perhaps I'd oughter tell ye that we sell a return fine ticket for $75, entitlin' ye to immunity from arrest on the way back."—Judge.

His Inspiration.
Percolium (of the Daily Bread)—"My dear, you are not only my chief incentive to work, but my lifelong inspiration." Mrs. Percolium—"I know I'm your inspiration, all right, Percolium. Whenever I mix a metaphor or make a little mistake in my grammar you turn it into a story and get pay for it."

Had to Know the Time.
"I understand," said the judge, "that you stole the watch of the doctor who had just written a prescription for you at the free dispensary. What have you to say to this charge?" "Well, your honor," said the prisoner, "it is true, but I found myself in a hole. His prescription said a spoonful every hour, and I had no watch."

The Fort Scott Tribune, tells of a farmer who was a victim of insomnia and went to a doctor in hope of getting relief. "In the first place," said the doctor, "have you any theory as to what it is that keeps you awake?" "Well," said the farmer, "I think I snore so loud that I wake myself up."

SECRETARY WILSON TALKS AT EDGERTON

Defends Taft's Administration in Address at Royal Hall—Other Edgerton News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Nov. 1.—Last night in Royal hall a republican rally, the first of the season was held. The meeting was addressed by Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture and was fairly well attended. He was introduced by Hon. L. C. Whitel. The speaker referred both to the Taft administration of government and that of his own as secretary of agriculture. Mr. Wilson was accompanied by his daughter, who rendered a number of vocal solos which were well received. Wedded in Baraboo.

Announcements have just been received here of the marriage at Baraboo of D. D. Brown of this city to Miss Leona Warren of Ableman, this state, which occurred on October 30. The Baraboo Daily News under date of October 30 has the following:

"Today at high noon the wedding of D. D. Brown, a business man of Edgerton, and Miss Leona Warren, a popular young lady of Ableman, was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Judeville, 416 Sixth street by Rev. J. M. Dick. The young couple were unattended and the bride carried pink and white carnations and was attired in white lace over tan silk. The house was beautifully decorated and a bounteous dinner was served after the ceremony. Only the near relatives of the young couple were present, who left many beautiful and costly presents. The wedding trip to Milwaukee, Chicago, and other points. The numerous friends of the couple wish them many happy years of wedded life."

Mr. Brown has been a resident of this city for many years and is engaged in business. He is a young man of sterling worth and character and financially is well supplied with this world's goods, being a heavy owner of real estate and a business block in this city, as well as owner of the family homestead farm in Hebron, a point near Whitewater. The bride has resided here for several years during which time she held the position of chief cook at the Bon Ton restaurant.

Hallowe'en Party. Mrs. Herman Handke last night entertained the force of young lady clerks of the department store and others to the number of twenty at her home in the third ward, the event being a Hallowe'en party of unique nature. A pleasant time was had and the event closed with the serving of delicious refreshments.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS ORGANIZE SOCIETY

Literary Society Formed With View of Preparing Teams For Debates With Whitewater and Stoughton.

Edgerton, Nov. 1.—The boys of the Edgerton high school have organized a Literary Society which will meet every two weeks on Thursday evening and is conducting its work with a view to prepare for the triangular debates to be held with Stoughton and Whitewater in the spring. At the last meeting Glenn Gardiner was elected president; Harold Sutton, vice president, and Marvin Johnson secretary and treasurer.

At the next meeting which will be held in the assembly room of the high school, Thursday, Nov. 7th the following program will be given: Debate. Resolved that the Progressive Republican Party known as the Bull Moose party is more detrimental than beneficial to our country.

Affirmative: Andrew Thorsen, Lowell Whitel. Negative: Eugene Flarity, Glenn Gardiner.

Six Minute Talks. "The Balkan War," Harold Dave; "Woman Suffrage," Russell Conn; "The Laboring Problem," Frank Goff; "Manual Training," Roy Marsden; "Socialism," Jay Campbell.

Edgerton Locals. An ungraded department was established in the city grades at the opening of the present school year with Miss Cleland in charge. The work of the department has been so successful that pupils are clamoring for admission. Thus far forty-five pupils have been handled by the department no more than fifteen being in the room at one time. The effect upon the school as a whole is excellent.

The customary Hallowe'en pranks were in evidence last night and in several cases it was necessary for the police to disperse crowds of boys and send them to their homes. The boys evidently thought that Prof. Holt and Mr. Richardson of the high school were considering going into the business of carriage repairing and therefore placed a supply on the roof of the boiler room for them to begin work upon. The buggies will undoubtedly be called for in a few days.

L. E. Gettle returned yesterday, after a week's stumping for McGovern in Walworth, Racine and Kenosha counties.

Not Hers.

The day has passed when it was the proper thing to tell a girl you love every hair on her head. That doesn't show any more personal admiration than if you adored her complexion.

Marriage License Twelve Years Old.

Judge Martin of the municipal court married a couple whose license had been obtained twelve years ago. Christopher C. Owens obtained a license to marry Miss Emma Brandy from County Clerk Philip Knopf on August 15, 1900. "We had a quarrel," he told Judge Martin, "and we didn't see each other for about eleven years. Recently we patched up the trouble."—Chicago Tribune.

Reformation Sometimes.

Habits in youth may be controlled and directed, which in the man become the confirmed condition of life. The reformer of old men and women has a profitless and an almost hopeless task.—Joseph Johnson.

Fighting Fish.

The warrior of the fish is the Indian fighting fish, which is well versed in the art of fighting. They fight like a bulldog and would not stop fighting until one is killed. East Indian natives gamble on the result of the fight between two fighting fish, and the fishes are treated just the same as prize bulldogs.

At The Theatre

"THE FORTUNE HUNTER"

One of the most important factors in stage work, especially that of the character actor, is his ability to "make up" the role he portrays so his identity merges and makes the prototype seem real. Two examples of this particular branch of the actor's art are to be seen in "The Fortune Hunter" which comes to the Myers theatre Monday, Nov. 4.

In the first act of this charming play, Guy Voyer and Frank Monroe impersonate a pair of well groomed and youthful Wall Street men as they really appear in everyday life. In the second act they appear as "Hil" and "Hatty," two of the oldest inhabitants of Radville, Ra. and it strains one's imagination most alarmingly to realize that "Hil" and "Hatty" are the debonaire and boyish Wall Street manipulators of act one, who pride themselves on knowing where the ice box is in every house they visit.

"THE GIRL WHO DARED," an original pinquent musical mixture will be seen at the Myers theatre Sunday November 3 matinee and evening. The cos-

Jeffries in "The Third Degree," a part in which she appeared at more than 500 times. Her vivid and appealing portrayal of this character led the United Play Co. to place her in the stellar role of the most remarkable play of recent years, "Kindling." It is an American drama of laughter and tears, a story quivering with the woman's repressed yearning for maturity; a vital, human document blazing forth the bitter injustice that lies at the root of the social system of today. How the man and wife find happiness in far away Wyoming, where their child can grow up straight and strong, is a chapter torn from the heart of life, a message of tender and earnest import to all humanity.

Miss Sarah Padden in "Kindling" will prove one of the big events of the season. It is real acting in a real play.

The money appropriated for the salary of a visiting nurse will not become available until February, but it may be found possible to have one begin work before that time. Dr. M. A. Cunningham, one of the officers of the local association has begun negotiations with officers of the state association for the purpose of getting in communication with nurses qualified for the position.

As Others See Us.

He came into the car with swagger, took the only vacant seat with outward manifestations of his belief in his own importance, kicking the big yellow valise belonging to the napping old woman next to him aside to make way for his tan-shod feet. The owner did not notice this, but when aroused at Fifty-second street, she fumbled about his left foot with her hand, trying to lift it, only to exclaim with much embarrassment: "Ach! Excuse me, but it look just like mine bag."

Should Have Some Superstition.

We would not give a rap for the person who is without all superstition. We would a little bit prefer the man whose superstitions are pessimistic to the one who is so exceedingly superior as to think there is no luck in life, no favor nor disfavor in anything that may happen or in any circumstance that may surround our lives.—Exchange.

Unkind Suggestion.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the manager, before the curtain, "it is my unpleasant duty to inform you that Mr. C., the star comedian, owing to illness, will not be able to appear tonight. His system has had a severe shock, and he is suffering from nervous prostration." "What's the matter?" shouted one of the gods from the gallery. "Did ye pay him in advance?"

Degrees of Vocabulary.

Shakespeare produced all his plays with about 15,000 different words; Milton's range comprised about 8,000; and the Old Testament's limit is 5,642. A person of good education seldom exceeds 4,000, while many people are limited to about 300.

"KINDLING"

Sarah Padden, who will be seen here Saturday November 2 matinee and evening in Charles Kenyon's great play, "Kindling," has legitimately earned her present high position among America's dramatic stars. It is one of the grandest and most interesting and heart-rending plays ever placed upon the stage, and it will live forever in the memory of the theatre-going public. Kibble and Martin, the enterprising managers, took great pains in staging and producing the original version of Mrs. Stow's beautiful story, every year try to outdo the previous. The company this season numbers over fifty people, twenty of which are colored, engaged to fill out the many pictures of the play and introduce their many old and new songs, dances and plantation shins. DINNER STORIES

A customer in a butcher's shop stood amazed at some small alligators in an aquarium. Having turned the matter over in his mind, the customer approached the butcher and exclaimed, "I suppose a body might as well be dead as out of style. Gimme a couple of pounds of alligator."

The motto above the great editor's desk read: "Accuracy, Accuracy, Accuracy." Therefore the story turned in by the cub reporter contained this statement: "Three thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine eyes were fixed upon the speaker." "What means this fool statement?" asked the great editor, as he prepared to use the blue pencil. "One man was blind in one eye," explained the cub.

While Mrs. W. was busy in her kitchen preparing the light refreshments for her bridge club, which includes the more well-to-do of the neighboring country, Sally Hill, a poor farmer's child, came in with a donation of home-made pickles. "My mother belongs to a club, too," said Sally. "Does she? And what do they do? Play cards?" "No," said Sally. "Oh, no, they just draw names out of a hat to see who'll have the next meeting."

LITTLE HALLOWE'EN MISCHIEF WAS DONE

Chief of Police Appleby Says Evening Was Quietest of Kind in Years—No Damage Reported.

"Hallowe'en evening was the quietest in years," says Chief of Police George Appleby this morning when asked to what extent the frolics and mischiefs of that festival had been carried last evening. "The pranks were mostly of a harmless nature such as the daubing of windows with soap, throwing beans on front porches and raising a racket. Several telephone calls were sent to the police station last night but no damage was reported."

The Chief of Police, patrolled the residence district in his rig until late, and two automobiles were at the service of the police in answering calls.

The automobiles proved effective in preventive serious disturbances. As they were on hand in a few moments after trouble was reported. The boys once warned, scattered at the approach of every auto, thinking it might be one of the police vehicles.

Six boys were locked up during the evening. Four of them were dismissed at midnight, and the other two about four o'clock this morning. The latter two were creating a disturbance at a party when captured by the police, and the others were running old bugs down hill toward the river. One of the boys arrested wore a large black hat of antique style and a monster star on his coat. In his hands he carried a pick ax handle which he knocked on the front door of all the houses he could reach.

1. The constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.
 2. The campaign publicity bill, enabling the public to know who are contributors to the campaigns of candidates and parties.
 3. The convict-labor bill, requiring the sale of convict-made goods to conform to the laws governing convict-made goods in the state in which they are sold. This bill would prevent some of the present illegitimate competition with free workmen and those who employ them.
 4. The children's bureau bill, to promote the welfare of children.
 5. The industrial commission bill; to investigate the entire subject of industrial relations between employer and employee with a view to ascertain the best methods of dealing with industrial disputes so as to protect the rights of all persons directly or indirectly interested.
 6. The bill to create a Department of Labor, with a Secretary who shall be a member of the President's Cabinet.
 7. The bill to extend the operations of the eight-hour law to work done for the Government as well as work done by the Government, except in cases of urgent necessity.
 8. The bill to widen the scope of the Bureau of Mines so that it may be better able to develop improved methods for preventing accidents in mines, and of rescue work when accidents occur in mines.
 9. The eight-hour provision in the Post Office Appropriation Bill for postoffice clerks and letter carriers.
 10. The eight-hour provision in the Naval Appropriation Bill, making an eight-hour day apply to work done under current appropriations.
 11. The phosphorus match bill; to stamp out the loathsome disease of phossy jaw, and better protect the health of workers in the match industry.
 12. The bill to extend the provisions of the compensation-for-injury act to the employees of the Bureau of Mines.
 13. The bill to give second-class mail privileges to the official papers and journals of trades unions and of fraternal societies.
 14. The provision of the Panama Canal Bill allowing American vessels engaged in coastwise trade between Atlantic and Pacific ports to go through the Canal free of tolls.
 15. The bill to abrogate the Treaty of 1832 between Russia and the United States, under which Russia claimed the right to exclude from her territory American citizens, having passports from our State Department, solely on the ground of their religious faith.
 16. I voted against the democratic wool bill which passed the House because I felt that its rates would have been ruinous to American industries. The bill was amended in the Senate and went to conference, where the House rates were improved through the determined efforts of the Senate progressives on the conference supported by their fellow progressives in the Senate. I then voted to pass the bill over the President's veto because convinced that, while it materially reduced rates in existing law, it nevertheless would afford adequate protection to American industries.
 17. I voted against the misnamed Farmers' Free List Bill, because it was drawn with no regard to any settled principle of tariff revision and with no real regard to American interests. It put American workmen and manufacturers producing articles on this list in open free-trade competition with the world.
- Of this bill, the great democratic newspaper, THE NEW YORK WORLD, said: "It is true in large degree that the Farmers' Free List Bill and the Cotton Bill were crudely and badly drawn, without intelligent adherence to a settled principle, and were examples of haphazard tariff tinkering of the catchpenny order."
18. I gave active support in furtherance of the Crago Bill, to pension the widows and orphans of Spanish-American War veterans. The bill is now in position to come up on the first Calendar Wednesday next December, when I shall vote for it.
 19. I twice prevented consideration of the log-rolling omnibus bill to grab waterpower sites, and when the bill finally came before the House I voted against it.
- I respectfully submit this record, together with the record of my previous service in Congress, for your consideration.

SUBMIT MANY LAWS TO VOTE OF PEOPLE

Thirty-Two Measures Submitted to Colorado Voters at Coming Election—State Prohibition Included.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 1.—The Colorado voter certainly has his work cut out for him when he goes to the polls next Tuesday. He will be given an opportunity to express his preference for two United States senators, as well as representatives in congress, governor and all other state officers and numerous judicial, county and local officials. Independents appear on the ballot for many of the offices, in addition to the nominees of half a dozen regular parties and political factions.

In addition to the national, congressional, state and county tickets, the voter is expected to register his opinion for or against thirty-two measures submitted under the initiative and referendum. Proposals for state-wide prohibition, the recall of all elective officials, including judges, are regarded as the most important of the measures to be voted upon. Other measures submitted under the initiative and referendum are those providing for a mother's compensation act, the extension of the civil service to all state, county and city offices, the use of public school houses as social centers, an eight-hour day for women, the abolition of constructive contempt of court, the establishment of a state fair, home rule for cities of over 20,000 population, and a $10,000,000 bond issue for good roads.

THE ONE O'CLOCK LUNCHEON.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THE one o'clock luncheon is a species of social liquidation with which woman pay their debts of the previous ten years and cause their husbands to groan audibly in the neighborhood of the check book.

One of these luncheons will usually hold a large family for quite an extended period, as for two days previous everybody in the house is obliged to eat in the kitchen and listen to the hired girl as she assuails the tire.

In order to give an afternoon luncheon properly it is necessary to repaper the house and have the hardwood floors varnished by an aromatic mechanic.

After this is done, the dog usually manages to live down full length in the varnish and transfer most of it to the furniture. If he should overlook this, the children will attend to it for him.

The object of the luncheon is to enable the invited guests to spring their fall clothes. There is no place in the world where a woman can introduce a new fall suit and hear more sotto voce comments on the fit than at one of these gatherings.

Some luncheon guests become so expert that they can tell at a glance whether the suit was bought of a mail order house or was built by a home architect.

Luncheons are generally followed by music by some visiting vocalist who does not tire easily and who introduces some rag-time effects into a series of Schuman songs.

When this ordeal is over, the guests get out their embroidery and punch monograms into table linen, sofa pillows and other lingerie.

The conversation at a luncheon ranges from Shakespeare to soup, and becomes more or less critical when the hostess is out of the room. Sometimes bridge whist is played for a souvenir spoon, bearing a picture of the court house or the new Presbyterian church.

Luncheons are hard upon husbands, who have to curl their legs around a lunch counter stool and pretend to like it. Every husband, however, wants to see his wife in the social swirls if it makes him a dyspeptic for life.

Mrs. Harry Barlow went to Beloit, Tuesday, returning home Wednesday. Her sister, Mrs. Addie Lynn, accompanied her here for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. A. M. Davis of Jansville was a week-end visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. S. Poynter.

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative-Tonic.

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health.

The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

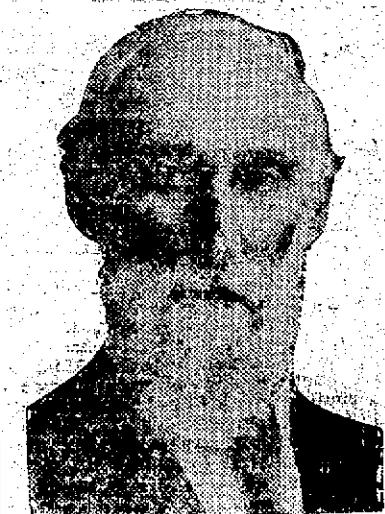

A much better plan, and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative-tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as it is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. Daniel Shively, Coral, Mich., and Mr. Chas. Scheerer, 3026 Holly St., Kansas City.

Mo., and they have Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house.

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merit they buy the dollar size, which is more economical.

Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way—a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 413 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

Have You Joined the Housewives' League?

As a result of the present high cost of living, an organization has been formed in the City of New York which promises to be of vast service to the women of the country. This is the Housewives' League, and it is an organized effort to prevent sales where prices for foodstuffs are abnormally high; to educate housewives along lines of economical buying; and to bring the commodities which are used daily in the household to standards of excellence which will insure a healthy young America.

But its work is not confined to the City of New York. In fifteen States the movement has received such cordial support and such accessions to its membership that State organizations are being formed.

And this country-wide membership with its enormous numbers can be a tremendous factor in regulating the price and the quality of food. A pitched battle comes between it and the trusts the probability is that it can vanquish the trusts, as no Congressional committee of investigation or decree of the Supreme Court has been able to do. For the trusts simply exist for the profits they can make, and if the women, by shrewd management and concerted action, reduce these profits, the trusts will find business is not paying enough to continue. For it is to be noted that foods, such as meat, butter and eggs, which are trust controlled, though this control may not be seen, are the same price practically from the Atlantic to the Pacific; whereas, those things that are sold by the producer himself, vary according to the locality and cost of production thereof.

The Housewives' League purposes work of a wide scope. One thing they have in mind is the building of a food exchange. This will be a building in which will be an exposition of everything which is pertinent to the science of housewifery, an assembling place where out-of-town members may meet and confer, and a centre of information, from which the outlying districts may be apprised by ticker-service of the state of the market.

The basement of the building will be a shipping room. Whenever conditions are such that produce is being abnormally withheld from the market, or that cold storage articles are being forced on the purchaser, small truck farmers, poultrymen and dairymen will be invited to ship their products right to the headquarters and dispose of them there.

Above this, will be a large room given over to the telephone, the telephone and the ticker; and from this room will come in and go out all necessary information upon prices, quantity and quality of various foodstuffs which the housewives of the League may need to know.

The entire front of the second floor will be given up to a permanent exposition of articles and products needed for the household. Nothing will be permitted there which has not been tested and reported on by several members.

It is believed the exchange will produce two important results. It will serve to insure fair prices for food products, and it will raise the standard of quality.

It is also planned to issue a daily sheet for the benefit of those who cannot easily get away from their homes. This will give in detail the information which the ticker and the telephone and telephone give to those within their radius. This little sheet will be mailed to League members, who need it.

You can easily see what a vast instrument this League can be for good. Is it not worth joining? Is it not worth organizing in your community if there is none there at present?

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THE TABLE.
Fudge—Two cups confectionary sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, two heaping tablespoons peanut butter. Boil all for five minutes exactly, then remove from fire and stir until it thickens; pour into buttered platter and cut into squares.

Apple Charlotte—Nine slices bread and butter, six good-sized apples, one tablespoon minced lemon peel, two tablespoons juice, moist sugar to taste.

Butter a pie dish. Place a layer of bread and butter without a crust, at the bottom, then layer of apples pared and cut into thin slices. Sprinkle over these a portion of the lemon peel and juice and sweeten with moist sugar.

Place another layer of bread and butter, then one of apples, proceeding in this manner till the dish is full. Then cover it up with the peel of the apples to keep the top from browning or burning. Bake in a brisk oven about three-fourths of an hour.

Turn Charlotte on a dish, sprinkle with sifted sugar and serve. Time: Three-fourths hour, or a few minutes longer. Cost: One shilling. Sufficient for five or six persons.

Things Worth Knowing.
Easy Way to Boil Macaroni—Put it in a wire flour sifter having a tin handle; immerse this in a kettle of boiling water. There will be no trouble caused by the sticking of the macaroni to the kettle and the sifter may easily be removed from the hot water.

Before washing a new piece of embroidery work, first grease well with lard and rub in thoroughly, all the embroidered parts; roll piece up, let lie over night in a covered dish (that mice may not get to it). In the morning wash in warm water and soap. It is surprising how white embroidery work looks that is treated this way before washing.

The Housewife.
To set color in bright calicoes and flannelettes, soak them an hour in pan of water to which you have added a tablespoon of turpentine. Mrs. G. E. Nichols.

When removing clothes from the line, fold each piece instead of carelessly throwing a wrinkled heap into the basket. You will have a much less awkward burden to carry into the house, and the basket will hold twice as much. Edna B.

When washing a thin silk dress, never hang out to dry. Make a suds, squeeze dress with hands until clean, then rinse in hot water and iron dry. I find this a very good way, as it makes the dress look brand-new. Mrs. D. M. Evans.

FOR THE COOK.
Don't wash meats more than is absolutely necessary, especially game and fowl, because it has a tendency to destroy the natural savor or sweetness.

Don't have a hot oven for simple milk puddings or the milk will curdle. Don't forget fresh meat should be put in boiling water, salt meat in cold water.

Don't forget in boiling meat that it must not be allowed to boil. In boiling vegetables do not let the boiling stop.

Don't fry anything unless the fat is boiling, because it makes the food heavy or sodden.

Don't keep canned provisions in the cans after being opened; the air renders them unwholesome.

Don't throw away burnt frying fat; boil the fat, put in a raw carrot and the burnt taste will disappear.

Don't let soup boil, only simmer, as the excellence of the soup largely depends on this.

The Kitchen Cabinet

There is no mystery about happiness whatever. Put in the right ingredients and it must come out.

FIGS AND DATES.

We are in the habit of thinking that dates, figs and raisins are confections, tidbits and luxuries. They are, in a measure, but contain much food value, and are much more wholesome for children to eat than too much of the so-called fresh fruit with which they are provided. These dried fruits are both nourishing and economical; as they take the place of more expensive foods. Dates have a food value in calories of 1275 to a pound, while the much used potato has only 295 to the pound.

Stuffed Dates.—Boil rapidly with stirring, one-half a cup of granulated sugar and a quarter of a cup of milk. Keep the granules from forming on the sides of the pan, by swabbing with water. When a soft ball forms when dropped in cold water, pour out on a platter and beat with a wooden spoon until thick. Add a quarter of a cup of shaved walnut or pecan meats and mold quickly in a sheet a quarter of an inch thick. Stone dates and stuff with the mixture.

Date Dainties for Travelers.—Stone dates and stuff with a mixture of nut meats, candied ginger, candied pineapple, roasted almonds and fondant flavored with lemon juice. Roll each one in granulated sugar and pack in layers in a tin box, covering each layer with paraffin paper. These will keep indefinitely.

Fig Brittle.—Melt a pound of sugar in a saucepan, stir in a half pound of figs chopped fine, and pour into a greased pan a half-inch thick; cut in strips and serve. Nuts may be added with the figs, if desired.

Oriental Cream.—Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in a fourth of a cup of cold water, dissolve it in a fourth of a cup of hot milk; add a half cup of sugar, set into a pan of cold water and stir until it begins to thicken. Then add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff, a third of a cup of each of figs and dates chopped, and a half pint of whipped cream. Turn into a mold and chill thoroughly.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

BENEFITED BY RICE WITH BREAD AND BUTTER.

Dr. Bulkley, a well known authority on Dietetics, says in the New York Medical Record, that he has derived great benefit in his own case from an exclusive diet of rice, bread and butter, and that he has used it in many cases with excellent results. "In giving this very restricted diet," he says, "to a considerable number of patients during the past five years, with the results mentioned, in no instance have they seemed to suffer physically from the absence of a mixed diet; indeed, I have been told, time and again, that they feel inexplicably better, lighter, and freer, and more able to endure." I have aimed to show that while diets differ much in their effect, from the meat diet to the milk or grape diet, the benefit of excluding excessive mixing is common to all, and that benefit is derived in most cases, in spite of the injury always resulting from a sudden change.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

OBEDIENCE in a child is certainly a splendid quality; more irritating than a mosquito's sting is it to have a disobedient child. And yet there are many ways of exacting obedience that seem to me even worse than putting up with disobedience. Cowing a child is one of these, and lying to a child is another.

The other day I was making a call on a woman of some social standing and presumably of some intelligence and education when her little son came into the room sucking his thumb.

"Phillip," said my hostess sharply, "take your thumb out of your mouth. If you keep putting it in, I shall certainly cut it off."

What do you think of that? Don't you think that mother is paying a pretty high price for her son's obedience?

I do.

And yet I know a great many grown people with a belief in their own integrity who seem to think nothing of forcing their children's obedience by lying to them about the consequences of their acts or the punishments that will follow.

"If you touch anything on the parlor table I'll tar and feather your hands," is one woman's pleasing threat to her seven-year-old daughter.

"If you don't behave the buggier man that lives in the dark-will catch you," has saddled thousands of children with a lifelong fear of darkness.

Lying to children is so unfair. You are their superiors in mentality anyway, and yet you take that further advantage of them. Besides, lying to children is dangerous. Sponger or later it simply must bring trouble. The child must either believe or disbelieve. If he disbelieves, he loses faith in you. If he believes he is likely to get into trouble with your falsehoods as a guide.

I remember a little anecdote in which I delighted when I was a child. I remember a little anecdote in which I delighted when I was a child. I remember a little anecdote in which I delighted when I was a child. I remember a little anecdote in which I delighted when I was a child.

Again, I once knew of a woman who was crossing the Atlantic with two children, a baby of two and a child of six. To lull the baby she repeatedly threatened to throw it out of the port-hole into the sea if it did not stop crying. On returning to her stateroom after a brief absence, what was her unspeakable horror to find that the older child had carried out her wicked threat.

Lying to children is ticklish business. If you must lie, take someone your mental size. Obedience enforced by threats is not much good, but it is even less desirable when the threats are lies.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

JUST AS EASY TO LOVE A RICH GIRL.

As long as they remain single, three daughters of a woman who recently died will receive the income of $60,000, according to the terms of their mother's will.

It's a sensible will. No—it doesn't put a premium on spinsterhood, as would appear at first thought. It is a protection to the three girls, who are thus saved from being the victims of men who find it "just as easy to love a rich girl as a poor one."

The income of each girl is not particularly large, in this instance. But it is enough to tempt many a man, and the girl who might marry in the fond belief that she was beloved would discover after marriage that it was her income, not the light in her eyes, which had led the suitor on.

So much is said about the girl who marries for money. A great deal more ought to be said about the man who is looking for a girl with property. Perhaps every little shopgirl is looking for a millionaire husband. It is just as true that every ten-dollar-a-week clerk hopes to some day attract the eye of a rich woman, old or young, pretty or ugly, who will be so fascinated by his manly charms that she will shower affection and luxuries upon him.

Of course the little shopgirl takes what she can get, in time—it's usually Henry of the "black goods"—or somebody like that—and makes a devoted wife. But Algernon hates to stop dreaming, so he waits until his build spot can't be hidden any longer, and the girls begin to turn him down as an escort. Then he takes what HE can get, too—usually an abandoned spinster who will put up with anything that will provide a home.

But even Algernon is not the only one who is looking for a wife who will bring him something. With the influx of foreigners, we're getting their ideas, and one of those ideas is that a man should marry a girl who, at least, has prospects. The girl who is good and pretty and poor still has a chance to make a real love match. But her chance is getting slimmer every year. Our most respectable young men are looking for girls with fathers who have the wherewithal to make a substantial will. Or they are

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

If you have ever fumed and fussed, because of dirt and grime and rust, and said unto yourself, "Oh, dear! This household work will kill me!"—then it is time that you should find some other method far more kind.

Of all the woes a housewife bears, one always fills her day with cares: The kitchen after-meal-time mess, is quite enough to make one fuss. What with the pots and pails and pans, the knives and forks and plates and cans, no task of man, however grim, the half as mean is handed him.

Two little willing workers aim to enter in this household game: their job, the lessening of work, a task that neither of them shrink. With active little hands and brains they grab the irksome household reins, till soon each kettle, pot or dish, is just as bright as you could wish. And not until the chores are done, from sink to silver, sun to sun, could anything inspire the two, to drop the tasks they have to do.

Therefore, if you have never known, assistance such as we have shown, your troubles end, where joy begins. Now, Mrs. Drudge, the Gold Dust Twins! Henceforth, as dishes congregate, and dingy pots that cannot wait, when cutlery, in sad array, awaits you at the close of day—"Cheer Up!" Forget the labor planned: You have two aids at your command.

A Motive for Christian Service

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D.D.,
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT: "Wherefore also we make it our aim whether at home or absent, to be well-pleasing unto him."—2. Cor. v. 9 (R. V.).

The motive for the service of Christ held before us in the context of these words is the hope of the future life which the believer has through Christ.

The nature of this hope is set before us in verses 1 to 4. Paul in the previous chapter had been speaking of his sufferings and afflictions as a Christian, and comforting himself and other Christians in a like case by the thought of the outcome of them all in the "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." This glory is a certainty, for he goes on to add: "We know that if the earthly house of our bodily frame be dissolved, we have a building from God, an house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens." There are so many things which a Christian may know if he will only take God's word for them, and this thing, so full of comfort, is one of them. We who are in the present body groan in it for many reasons, but our desire is if we are Christians not merely to be rid of it but to be "clothed upon," i. e., to receive our new resurrection and glorified body. In other words, the hope set before the regenerated man is not death but that which sooner or later follows death, the resurrection and all that it implies. It is then that what is mortal shall be swallowed up of life.

Assurance of Resurrection.

After speaking of the hope set before the Christian the inspired writer goes on to show how assured it is in verses 5 to 8. "He that wrought us for this very thing is God," he says. The very object God had in view in the salvation of any man and all his work of grace in him was to this very end. "A great theologian," has said, "The end of God's way are corporeity," a thought which Paul sets before us here as applied to the resurrection from the dead. Moreover, God has not only wrought us to this end, not only is this God's purpose concerning us Christians, but he has given us a pledge of it in the dwelling of his holy spirit within us. The holy spirit in every believer is an "earnest" or foretaste of this thing, his indwelling certifies to our resurrection, so that "we are always confident" or of good courage concerning it.

Wherefore, says the apostle, "we labor," or rather, we make it our aim or ambition, that "whether present or absent we may be accepted of him." Paul was always looking for the return of the Lord Jesus Christ, and if he, Paul, were present in the flesh on the earth when he came, he wanted to be found accepted or well-pleasing in his sight. It was possible, however, that he might be absent from the earth and from the body when the Lord came, but in that case also he wanted to be accepted of him. Whether he were present in the body or absent from the body he expected to stand before him. "We must all appear before the judgment-seat of Christ," he says, "that everyone may receive the things done in his body whether it be good or bad." The reference here is to Christians. They will not have to stand before Christ's judgment-seat in order to have it determined whether they are lost or saved, that is determined the moment the Christian takes Jesus Christ by faith to be his savior, but they must render an account to him of their stewardship as Christians in order to determine the matter of their rewards. It was for this reason that Paul wished to be found well-pleasing to him, and this reason sets before us the power of the Christian's hope to produce a holy life.

Reason for Evangelism.

But there was one special matter in which Paul desired to be well-pleasing to his lord, and that was in the saving of lost souls such as he had been, and such as all men are by nature. "Knowing therefore," he says, "the fear of the Lord"—i. e., having our eyes on the judgment-seat of Christ when we must give account of our service with reference to our reward—"we persuade men."

This was the motive for such service with him. He was not thinking just now of the peril and retribution that would fall upon the lost, though, of course, at other times he emphasized that motive for saving such; but he was thinking of his own accountability when, raised from the dead at Christ's second coming, he must face his record of service. Paul's motive should be our motive, for we have the same accountability, and must face the same Lord. How are we fulfilling it? We have many ambitions; can we say that we have this ambition?

"Knew him! Who better?" The whitened head wagged. "And the Black Seigneur? Wasn't he left, as a child, with me, when the old Seigneur went to America? And," pursing her thin lips, "didn't I care for him, and bring him up as one of my own?"

"But I thought—I heard that he, the Black Seigneur, when a boy, lived in the woods."

"That," answered the old creature, "was after. After the years he lived with us and shared our all! Not that we begrudged—no, no! Nor he! For once when I sent word, pleading our need, that we were starving, he forgave—I mean, remembered me—all I had done and, in a wheedling voice, 'sent money—money—'

"He did?" Swiftly the girl reached for her own purse, only to discover she had forgotten to bring one. "But of course," in a tone of disappointment at her oversight, "he couldn't very well forget or desert one who had so generously befriended him."

"There are those now among his friends he must needs desert," the crone cackled, wagging her head.

A shadow crossed the girl's brow. "Must needs?" she repeated.

"Aye, forsooth! His comrades—taken prisoners near the island of Casque? His Excellency will hang them till they're dead—dead, like some I've seen dangling from the branches in the wood. He, the Black Seigneur, may wish to save them; but what can he do?"

"What, indeed?" The girl regarded the Mount almost bitterly. "It is impregnable."

"Way there!" At that moment, a deep, strong voice from a little group of people, moving toward them, interrupted.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Mountbank and the People.
In the center walked a man, dressed as a mountbank, who bent forward, laden with various properties—a bag that contained a miscellany of spurious medicines and drugs, to be sold from a stand; and various dolls for a small puppet theater he carried on his back. It was not for the Governor's daughter, or the old woman, however, his call had been intended. "Way there!" he repeated to those in front of him.

But they, yet seeking to detain, called out: "Give the piece here!"

Like a person not lightly turned from his purpose, he, strolling-player as well as charlatan, pointed to the Mount, and, unceremoniously thrusting one person to this side and another to that, stubbornly pushed on. As long as they were in sight the girl watched, but when with shouts and laughter they had vanished, swallowed by the shifting host, once more she turned to the crone. That person, however, had walked on toward the shore, and indecisively the Governor's daughter gazed after. The woman's name she had not inquired, but could find out later; that would not be difficult, she felt sure.

Soon, with no definite thought of where she was going, she began to retrace her steps, no longer experiencing that earlier over-sensitive perception for details, but seeing the picture as a whole—a vague impression of faces; in the background, the Mount—its golden saint ever threatening to strike—until she drew closer, when abruptly the uplifted blade, a dominant note, above color and movement, vanished, and she looked about to find herself in the shadow of one of the rock's bulwarks. Near by, a scattering approach of pilgrims from the sands narrowed into a compact stream directed toward a lower gate, and remembering her experience above, she would have avoided the general current; but no choice remained. At the portals she was jostled sharply; no respecters of persons, these men made her once more feel what it was to be one of the great commonalty; an atom in the rank and file! At length reaching the tower's little square, many of them stopped, and she was suffered to escape—to the stone steps swinging sharply upward. She had not gone far, however, when looking down, she was held by a spectacle not without

"Down With the Devil!"

by a cane, and the sentiment: "Thus all bad persons deserve to fare!" and culminating in an excellent climax to the lesson—a tattoo on the peasant's head that sent him simultaneously, and felicitously, down with the curtain.

"What think you of it?" At my lady's elbow one of the officers turned to a companion.

"Amusing, but—" And his glance turned dubiously toward the people. Certainly they did not now show proper appreciation either for the literary merits of the little piece or the precepts it promulgated in fairly sounding verse.

"The mountbank!" From the crowd a number of discontented voices rose. "Come out, Monsieur Mountbank!"

"Yes, Monsieur Mountbank, come out; come out!"

With fast-beating heart, the Lady

Elise gazed, as in a dream had she listened—not to the lines of the puppet play; but to a voice—strangely familiar, yet different—ironical, scoffing, laughing! She drew her breath quickly; once more studied the head, in its white, close-fitting clown's covering; the heavy, painted face, with red, gaping mouth. Then, the next moment, as he bowed himself back—apparently unmindful of a missile some one threw and which struck his little theater—the half-closed, dull eyes met hers; passed, without sign or expression!—and she gave a nervous little laugh. What a fancy!

"Act second!" the tinkling of a bell prefaced the announcement, and once more was the curtain drawn, this time revealing a marsh and the bad peasant at work, reluctantly beating the water to the Song of the Stick.

"Beat! beat! At his lordship's command: For if there's a break, For you'll be the stroke, From no gentle hand."

A merry little tune, it threaded the act; it was soon interrupted, however, during a scene where a comical-looking devil on a broomstick, useful both for transportation and persuasion, came for something which he called the peasant's soul. Again the bad peasant protested; would cheat even the devil of his due, but his satanic Majesty would not be set aside.

"You may rob your master," he said, in effect; "defraud him of banalities, burlesque and those other few taxes necessary to his dignity and position; but you can't defraud Me!" Whereupon he proceeded to wrest what he wanted from the bad peasant by force—and the aid of the broomstick!—accompanying the attack with a well-remembered homily on what would certainly happen to every peasant who sought to deprive his lord of feudal rights. At this point a growing restlessness on the part of the audience found resentful expression.

"That for your devil's stick!" "To the devil with the devil!" "Down with the devil!"

The cry, once started, was not easy to stop; men in liquor and ripe for mischief repeated it; in vain the mountbank pleaded: "My poor dolls! My poor theater!" Unceasingly they tumbled it and him over; a few, who had seen nothing out of the ordinary in the little play took his part; words were exchanged for blows, with many fighting for the sake of fighting, when into the center of this, the real stage, appeared soldiers.

"What does it mean?" Impressive in gold adornment and conscious authority, the commandant himself came down the steps. "Who dares make riot on a day consecrated to the holy relics? But you shall pay!" as the soldiers separated the belligerents. "Take those men into custody and—who is this fellow?" turning to the mountbank, a mournful figure above the wreckage of his theater and poor puppets scattered, haphazard, like victims of some untoward disaster.

"It was his play that started the trouble," said one of the officers.

"Diable!" the commandant frowned. "What have you to say for yourself?" "I," began the mountbank, "I—repeated, when courage and words alike seemed to fail him.

The commandant made a gesture. "Up with him! To the top of the Mount!"

"No, no!" At once the fellow's voice came back to him. "Don't take me there into the terrible Mount! Don't lock me up!"

"Don't lock me up!" repeated some one in the crowd, moved apparently by the sight of his distress. "It wasn't his fault!"

"No; it wasn't his fault!" said others.

"Th?" Wheeling sharply, the commandant gazed, at the lowering faces that dared question his authority; then at his own soldiers. On the beach he might not have felt so secure, but here, where twenty, well-armed, could defend a pass and a mob batter their heads in vain against walls, he could well afford a confident front. "Up with you!" he cried sternly and gave the mountbank a contemptuous thrust.

For the first time the man's apathy seemed to desert him; his arm shot back like lightning, but almost at once fell to his side, while an expression, apologetically abject, as if to atone for that momentary fierce impulse, overspread his dull visage. "Oh, I'll go," he said, in accents, servile. And proceeded hurriedly to gather up the remains of his theater and dolls. "I'm willing to go."

Never.

The man who goes out to meet trouble never happens to take the wrong road.

A Physician's Faith in Tube, Culosin Medicine

"I have used Culosin's Alternative in several cases of tubercular glands of the neck, with excellent results every time. In one case it cost me $30, for the girl was put on it only until she could arrange to be operated, and in a short time an operation was not needed. I suppose your records are just as fine as of old. You know my faith in it." (Original of this physician's letter on file.)

Dr. Culosin's Alternative is effective in all forms of tubercular disease, whether in the lungs, throat, or elsewhere. It is a powerful, yet safe, and reliable remedy. Read what Mrs. Garvin says:—

"I have gained twenty-two pounds since last February and my baby is in perfect health. I have been waiting since she was born to see how I would get along. I am now doing all my work, have been ever since she was four weeks old, and I am steadily gaining. I do not cough or miss anything at all. I believe my lung trouble is cured." (Signed) MRS. M. H. GARVIN.

Baby Prints Not New.

Registering the finger prints of babies is nothing new, as every landlord who has to pay for fresh paint can testify.

SHE HAD PRIZE HAIR.

Long, rich, heavy hair. Smooth, soft, luxuriant hair. She says she owes it all to Hall's Hair Renewer. But she doesn't. It helped a big lot, but that is all. She had a good digestion, rich blood, strong nerves. Don't go through life half-sick and with stunted hair. Consult your doctor and follow his advice. Advertisement.

HOW A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION WAS GIVEN THE NAME IT BEARS

Father John's Medicine the old fashioned family medicine which has had over 50 years success in the East is now being introduced here for the first time.

Wherever it has been advertised and established it is the leading selling preparation on account of its recognized merit and impressive endorsements by clergy, hospitals, doctors, etc. A partial list will be printed later.

Father John's Medicine will cure coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles, prevent consumption, and make flesh and strength if taken faithfully. It is not a patent medicine, and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs.

Father John's Medicine was originally prescribed for Rev. Father John O'Brien, of Lowell, Mass., in 1855, by an eminent physician.

He was very much "run down" and suffering from a severe cough and cold. The medicine produced such wonderful results in his case that he afterwards recommended it to his parishioners and friends.

In this way it became popularly known as Father John's Medicine and many thousands have since been benefited by this valuable prescription.

As a guarantee that this story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000.00 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

"If you have any difficulty in getting Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing one dollar for a large bottle express prepaid."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, November 1, 1872.—Lieutenant General Phil Sheridan, several members of his staff and Charles L. Wilson, proprietor of the Chicago Journal, reached this city from Koshkonong early this morning and departed for Chicago on the 2:20 train this afternoon. The party have been spending several days at Blug-tam's on Lake Koshkonong, indulging in duck hunting, this species of sport being the General's favorite pastime. During the stay of the party in this city they were the guests of H. D. McKinney and on his invitation many of our citizens called at his residence that the motive of making them part-clients in the honor of residence on a fashionable street was to draw from their property the proportion of the cost of the proposed grading. The order for the work has been rescinded but it is evident that the grading must eventually be performed. Hence the people on this hitherto nameless fragment of a street feel that they prefer to be isolated from their high-toned neighbors and continue to exist in the economical oblivion which has in the past preserved their bank accounts from the encroachments of street taxation. They have petitioned the common council to take back the name it has given them and curtail Court street to its original proportions.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher
Copyright 1909, by
George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

The less a woman's like a man, the more adorable is she; when she forsakes the old time plan she sends a wire-edged pain through me. To mix up in this suffrage game destroys reserve and grace and pride; I've never seen a suffrage dame who wasn't bold and saucy-eyed. Let men resort to campaign tricks and make the worn out walkin' throb; a woman taking politics would make the gods throw up their job. I've watched the downward course of girls who once were radiant and rare, with azure eyes and golden curls the smiles as sunny as their hair. They wore a wren's nest of a hat, a never-ADVANCED fades—the love of all women their fellows here, while they were modest, joyous maids, contented with their proper sphere; but when they filled the air with shrieks, demanding votes and this and that, men passed them up as dizzy freaks who didn't know where they were at. And soon they lost their gracious charms, their once sweet eyes grew bold and hard, their voices hoarse from calls to arms; they looked like yemen of the guard. And any dame who fills her mind with politics, and makes a din, and tries to work the mannish grind, will soon have illies on her chin. The suffrage women, night and morn, still haunt their banners in the breeze. God help the children yet unborn, if they have mothers such as these!

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Do not change it fairly well satisfied or attempt unfamiliar things on a large scale. Trouble threatens you and those dear to you, and a too wilful course on your part will make matters worse.

Those born today will have positive natures and will run to extremes in their emotions, but with their natural intelligence they are easily taught self-control, so necessary to their success. Unhappy marriages are foretold for their children.

Joy of Life.

To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over ploughshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy; they have always had the power of doing this, they never will have power to do more. The world's prosperity or adversity depends upon our knowing and teaching these few things.—John Ruskin.

Hue and Cry.

See the young woman. Is the young woman being suddenly and unexpectedly kissed? Ah, yes. And does the young woman raise a hue and cry? The young woman raises a slight hue, but no cry.

HE HAD THE EASY PART

Wife—It certainly does one good to have Dr. Jolly when one is sick. Hubby—Oh! I don't think he is any better than the other doctors. “But he is so pleasant.” “Well, how can he be otherwise when he is getting $3 for a 10-minute call?”

Women as Plumbers.

From a note which appears in the columns of the Ironmonger it would appear that no fewer than 150 young women in New York are about to go to school to learn plumbing, carpentering and so forth. They seem to be thoroughly in earnest. The promoters of the school obtained $50,000 and the services of six teachers with scarcely any effort.

Work and Sing.

Give us, oh, give, the man who sings at his work! Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He will do more in the same time, he will do it better, he will persevere longer. One is scarcely sensible to fatigue whilst he marches to music. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres.—T. Carlyle.

WOMAN SUSPECTED OF EIGHT MURDERS

Sinister Trail of Death Is Left
by Mrs. Louise Vermilya,
Now Under Arrest.

MAY BE NEW BORGIA

Puts Arsenic in Pepper and Attempts to End Her Own Life When Arrested—Police Claim She's a Moral Monster of the Guinness Type.

Chicago.—From obscurity to infamy in a day is the surprising record of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, "the woman of death," as she has become known in local criminal annals. One day an ordinary woman, with nothing to differentiate her in public estimate from thousands of other women, she suddenly loomed-up as one of the archpoisoners of modern times.

Among those with whose murder
she is charged are two husbands, a son, a stepson, two stepdaughters and two men who were her intimate friends and who had lived in her home. Only a few weeks ago one of these friends, Police Officer Arthur Bisouette, to whom the woman says
she was engaged, was taken sick in Mrs. Vermilya's home on East Twenty-ninth street, and later died in Mercy Hospital. The viscera of Bisou-ette were subjected to chemical analysis and enough arsenic to kill five persons was found in the liver. Mrs.
Vermilya was placed under arrest, although permitted at first to remain under guard in her own home, and was charged with the crime, which she indignantly denied. Then, one morning after eating breakfast in her room
she was taken sick suddenly and her case was at once diagnosed as one of

MRS. LOUISE VERMILYA

poison. The poison was traced to a pepper box, which she had insisted upon being placed on her breakfast tray.
The investigation which the police have made into the woman's career has brought to light a remarkable story, which goes back a period of 18 years, when Mrs. Vermilya was living with her first husband, Fred Brinkamp, on a farm near Barrington, Ill. Brin-kamp, who was twice his wife's age and prosperous, was taken suddenly sick and died, leaving his wife $5,000 worth of property. His death saved him much sorrow, for in close succession, his daughters, Cora and Florence, aged 8 and 4 years respectively, took sick like the father and died. Mrs.
Vermilya, thus relieved of domestic responsibility and with considerable money in her possession, removed to Chicago and here in a short time
married Charles Vermilya, a widower, with one son, Harry G. The latter was taken sick in 1904 and Mrs. Vermilya nursed him. He died.

Mrs. Vermilya now began keeping boarders. The first of these was Richard T. Smith, a railroad conductor, whose relations with his landlady are said to have been unduly intimate.
Possibly the husband, Charles Vermilya, was not wanted around. At any rate in 1909 he was taken sick and died, leaving his widow an insurance policy of $1,000 and the boarder, Smith.

There now remained in the Vermilya home her son, Frank Brinkamp,
by her first husband and the boarder,
Smith. The son was taken sick, leaving her an insurance policy of $1,200.
This was last year. Early last spring Smith sickened and died of "acute gastritis."

Officer Bisouette now became the star boarder. According to Mrs. Vermilya they were engaged to be married. Recently he acquainted Mrs.
Vermilya with his engagement to another, and his sickness followed. It was diagnosed as acute gastritis. The chemical analysis showed, however,
that death was caused by "arsenical poisoning."

Mrs. Vermilya is emphatic in her denial of guilt. She claims her life has been an open one and that she always has been a religious woman. The police assert that she is a moral monster, patterned after the Guinness woman, who maintained a plentifully tenanted graveyard at La Porte, Ind.

nity fugitive, experimenting dangerous, reasoning difficult.—Hippocrates.

The Sign and the Leaven. Mark
viii:11-26.

Golden Text.—Jesus spake unto them,
saying, I am the light of the world;
he that followeth me shall not walk
in darkness, but shall have the light of life. John viii:12.

(1.) Verse 11.—How do you account for the fact that religious differences generally stir much antagonism?

(2.) Why is it impossible to learn spiritual truth when in an antagonistic frame of mind?

(3.) What caused the Sadducees and Pharisees, who hated each other, to unite in their hatred of Jesus?

(4.) What was the nature of the "sign" they wanted?

(5.) Verses 12-13.—What reason is there to believe that if Jesus had performed ever so wonderful a "sign" it would have made any difference in their attitude to him?

(6.) Why did their request for a sign make Jesus feel so sad? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(7.) Was their opposition to Jesus honest or dishonest? Give your reasons.

(8.) Why did not the wonderful "signs" which Jesus had already performed satisfy them?

(9.) Which cause is the more influential in keeping men from Christ today,
a lack of evidence of the truth of Christianity or the love of sin? Give your reasons.

(10.) Verse 14.—If the disciples ought to have taken bread and did not, was the forgetting a sinful act?

(11.) Is it ever wrong to forget and,
if so, under what circumstances?

(12.) Verses 15-16.—As Jesus did not mean to reproach them for not taking bread, whether they were blameworthy or not, why did their consciences accuse them of neglect?

(13.) What does literal leaven do, and what did Jesus mean by "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the leaven of Herod?"

(14.) Why ought all who would be good to beware of Pharisaical hypocricy, ostentation, pride, formalism and placing the letter before the spirit and of Herodian superstition, sensuality and cruelty?

(15.) What should be the compelling spirit of every Christian man?

(16.) Verses 17-18.—What part does a clear conscience, an unselfish spirit
and a tender heart play in understanding the ways of God?

(17.) What error or sin were these apostles guilty of to merit this rebuke of Jesus?

(18.) Verses 19-21.—When we do our duty is there any need to fear for our bread and butter? Why?

(19.) How many times in your life have you eaten all the food you have had or could procure, and how many times have you had plenty of food left after every meal? Then why do you worry for the future?

(20.) Verses 22-26.—Why do you think Jesus used different outward methods
in restoring sight to the blind?

(21.) How many different types of conversion and of religious experience are there? Did you ever know any two exactly alike?

(22.) What analogy is there between this man's experience and when our spiritual eyes are first opened?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO THE MAN OF FORTY.

It is the common saying that unless a man has succeeded in life by the time he is forty years of age he never will succeed.

The statement is too broad.

It is untrue.

The facts do not sustain it.

A study of the lives of the successful will show that success comes to most men after rather than before forty. Is it financial success? Who, save by speculation, has amassed a fortune before he was forty?

Or politics? Few get more than fairly started in politics before that age.
He who goes to the United States senate at fifty is rated as a young member.

Or merchandise or literature or art
or the professions?

Most of us at forty are only just ready for successful endeavor. We have made our mistakes and learned of experience. We have discovered our right place in life and our limitations. Years have matured judgment, and the brain stands guard over the passions.

Life and literature team with illustrations of success at forty, fifty, sixty,
seventy, even ninety.

Fortunate is he who is in the way of success at the age of forty; fortunate he who, though unsuccessful, has learned his world and himself and has not lost courage.

Courage—that is the prime thing.
No matter what his age, you cannot keep a brave man down. He may stumble and fall and fall again and again. But he will get up.

And some day when he has worked his will concerning himself he will have about him his own charmed circle of accomplishment where "none durst walk but he."

Are you forty—or more?

Hold up your chin and walk on your heels and toes. You are fairly fitted to do what you want to do and become what you want to be. No young man can buy from you your personal experience, whatever he may offer as the price.

At forty you are the son of the God of things as they are. You have outlived your illusions. You know the ways of your fellows. You know your own ways.

Is it not so?

From the fullness of your experience
you are mightily equipped out of defeat to organize victory.

Having overcome yourself, you may overcome the world. For greater is he that ruleth his own spirit than he that taketh a city. There is in you, battered though you be, the power of conquest.

Courage! You are ready to begin.

Physicians Never Pre- scribe Patent Medicines

For Rheumatism, Sciatica or Neuritis

But every good physician must keep abreast of the times. The success of his practice and the lives of his patients depend upon his knowing all about the latest pharmaceutical preparations.

And the best physicians, those that are most successful in the treatment of their patients, are generous enough, bi-minded enough, to prescribe compounds that were discovered by their antagonists, provided those compounds have stood the test.

Nurito is such a preparation. It was compounded from the prescription of a practicing physician and is entirely free from narcotics and opiates.

Nurito quickly relieves the most excruciating rheumatic pains. It prevents them from repeating with unrelenting weather.

Be A Kindling Booster

A little over a year ago Charles Kenyon, a new playwright, wrote a great sermon in drama form which found a manager with faith enough in real drama to produce it. Margaret Illington playing the leading role gave it power. It is a simple, unpleasant story which mirrors the cruel contrasts of life that exist every day in millions of homes in the congested sections of our great cities. In the wretched tenements, dirty, unsanitary holes in the city cliffs, with a sewage system that is worse than no sewage system, inadequate water supply, ill-lighted and ill-ventilated, — in these death-breeding homes live the poor who are sacrificed to the greed of usurious rent.
They are nothing but the kindling sticks that are fed the flame of comfort of the thoughtless, irreligious rich. This is the hideously true story which Mr. Kenyon frankly exhibits for thoughtful consideration in his play which is here today and ably interpreted by Miss Sarah Padden and her excellent support.

When this play was first produced in New York, as might be expected, it started on the sure road of defeat. It was not what is known in Rialto parlance a "T. B. M." show (tired business man).
When the managers announced that its third week's run would be its last week's run, a group of thoughtful and earnest actors, magazine editors, and writers, meeting one evening at the Players in Grammercy Park, decided that New York ought to see "Kindling" and that New York MUST see "Kindling." They organized themselves into the "Kindling Boosters." They were men whose judgment was respected; newspapers were glad to get their "copy." They went to the New York newspapers and through these papers told New York what "Kindling" was: that it was picturing the whole problem of injustice, inequality, the problem of the metropolis and the fight of the twentieth century which is the fight against poverty. They woke New York up to the importance of this play. They saved it.
And New York saw it.

Out of the metropolis this play comes to our own little city of thinking people. Our theater here that was packed but a few days ago to hear "The Siren" waltz and to see "The Modern Eve" was sparsely filled last evening to see this superb, purposeful play "Kind-ling." It is to be given again this afternoon and tonight. We are glad to openly advertise in this column so good a sermon as "Kind-ling." Be a "Kindling Booster." Go see it. It will give you something to think about. You will be a better citizen for it.

From the Madison State Journal of Oct. 30. Written by Richard Lloyd Jones, editor.
